Objetivos/Resultados de aprendizaje

What is a border? What does it communicate and separate and? This course intends to answer such questions at the same time that delves into the concept of the border/frontier and its importance in the American imaginary. From a variety of critical approaches, this course examines the dynamics of the border and border encounters and their linguistic, identitary, philosophical, ideological and cultural consequences. The course dissects the concept of the boundary at the same time that it examines the importance of geopolitical lines in the definition of a country and a nation. As it focuses on literary and cultural manifestations, with the analysis of movies such as The Terminal, The Visitor, Frozen River o Babel, the course offers a critical and interdisciplinary dialogue between culture and the world we live in.

Principios Metodológicos/Métodos Docentes

Class meetings will consist of lectures, group discussions, and oral presentations. The course will put strong emphasis not only on oral discussions, but also on activities designed to stimulate the students' writing skills. Since regularly we have an international mix of students in the course, there will be ample opportunity for participants to share their own ideas and experiences of border encounters and the crossing of lines.

Criterios y sistemas de evaluación

A selection of texts (including but not limited to those indicated above) will be specified at the beginning of the course for class discussion on given dates. Students are required to read each assigned text before class and to come prepared to discuss it. In addition, students will have to prepare an oral presentation. The students will be evaluated on a combination of their participation in class, an oral presentation and a final written essay. There will be a final paper or project.

Participation and oral presentation: 30 % Written Assignments: 30%

Final project 40%
