5. Methodology

- Presence learning-Lectures: theoretical lessons held by teachers who will use different learning materials (presentations, papers, videos, multimedia) (4 h).
- Distance learning: synchronous theoretical lessons will be carried out by teachers online through video-conference tools (e.g., WebEx, Google hangout). Students are expected to log in on time for the synchronous sessions, remain for the full virtual session, and be prepared to actively participate. Moreover, different videos and webinars will be available in the Moodle platform to provide support to students' autonomous work (16h).
- During the course students will work in several practical activities (individually and in groups) regarding concrete topics of each module of the course. Peer assessment activities will also be included.
